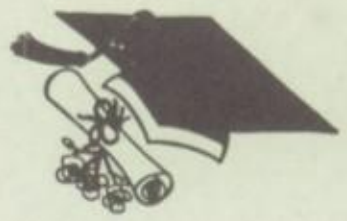
Valedictory



By Phyllis R. Krotonsky

Our special day has finally arrived. No longer shall we be guided by our teachers toward the right path to success. We alone shall decide what happens to us--how we take life, what we do with it, and how to take advantage of our education so that we may make our lives a thing of worth.

Our diploma doesn't weigh much; nevertheless, it is heavy. It is heavy with the expectation that we will use our skills and abilities in the best way we know in order to reach our goals. Our reward will be in proportion to the care and use we make of our education.

This graduation is a milestone in our life, marking the beginning of more important activities. These activities will require us to face greater responsibilities and to meet them with maturity. As we go on to the next step in life, much hard work will be demanded of us. If luck seems to play a part in success, we must remember that what often appears to be luck may have come as a result of being prepared to seize opportunity when it appears.

Our stay at Levitan has been too brief, and now only priceless memories of those days remain. Our teachers have devoted themselves to molding us into young men and women ready to meet the never-ending challenges which lie ahead. In addition to teaching us the basic skills and fundamentals necessary for our future careers, our teachers have dedicated themselves to teaching us to think, to analyze, and to judge ideas in terms of their constructive value. In the future we shall look back upon our experiences at Levitan with warm feelings and the knowledge that we did benefit greatly from its teachings.

Seniors

Graduation

We,

the

Seniors

From the president:

The greatest satisfaction in life comes not from accumulating wealth but from the satisfaction of a job well done. The truth is: If you do your work well, money will be no problem.

I hope that in all your endeavors you will keep this thought in mind and always do the best you can.

David S. Levitan

From the principal:

As the Seniors complete their courses and the Juniors move up to Senior position, milestones are passed. What lies ahead, we shall learn as we take the next step. For all of us, the future is a beginning. Each day, each month, each year, what we have done we leave behind us.

What we shall do is an ever-changing opportunity for new achievements, new ideals, and new experiences. We must keep our minds open so that we can live with the present and move into the future. We must be ready to change just as the world about us is always changing. As we've heard so many times, "There is nothing to fear but fear itself."

For each of you I make this wish:

May the road rise to meet you.
May the wind be always at your back.
May the sun shine warm upon your face
And the rain fall soft upon your fields.
And, until we meet again,
May God hold you in the hollow of His hand.

Esther W. Levitan

OUR SUMMARY
TO THE SCHOOL
We are striving to make the ideal in our mind a reality on the Canvas of Time. Our paints are our thoughts, our emotions, our acts.
There are lights and shadows that have made and will make life deep and strong.
For us,
the Art of Work, the Art of Achievement, is the Art of Making Life a Masterpiece.
We shall try to make our picture a worthy one.
Gratefully yours,
The Seniors.

To the racoon, (Pat)

I hope that you enjoyed your first year at Lenstar as it is a wonderful school (Ha!) (This, I'm sure will make you laugh a year or two from today!) Best of luck in the future, esp. with the reindeer, as reindeers and racoons get along well together.

Joanne Jellick

Dear Pat,

always stay as sweet as you are. You have been a sweet friend to me. Take care of George!

Love,
Judy.
